Bail Application - Patrick Robin Higo

B

BAILIFF: This is a question of review, Mr Slater, and as the Attorney said, we would have to find that, if we granted the application, that the Magistrate had acted unreasonably in fluct acta, the requirements of Archbold and though it is possible - I only say possible - that, had this been an application de novo for somebody indicted before this Court, we might have granted bail, we are unable to say that the Magistrate acted unreasonably and, therefore, the application is refused.
