R. -v- James Neilson Mutter

The Solicitor General for the Crown,
Advocate D. E. Le Cornu for the Accused.

THE BAILIFF: These are very serious offences, and with an offence such as this, it is very unusual to grant bail before sentence: however we are prepared to do so under the following conditions:

You are granted bail in the sum of £200; you will surrender your passport; and you will report daily to the Police, at a time and place to be agreed with them.
