DECISION

Decisions of the tribunal

- (1) The Tribunal grants the application for the dispensation of all or any of the consultation requirements provided for by section 20 of the Landlord and Tenant Act 1985 (Section 20ZA of the same Act).
- (2) The reasons for our decisions are set out below.

The application

- (1) In relation to the seven flats at 60 Netherwood Road London W14 0BG (“the properties”) the applicant seeks dispensation under section 20ZA of the Landlord and Tenant Act 1985 from all the consultation requirements imposed on the landlord by section 20 of the 1985 Act, (see the Service Charges (Consultation Requirements) (England) Regulations 2003 (SI2003/1987), Schedule 4.) The applicant has applied for dispensation from the statutory consultation requirements in respect of urgent roofing works to prevent further ingress of water into Flat 5. The applicant says that the roof has temporary protection while they await the tribunal’s decision. They wish to carry out works as soon as possible to prevent further damage to flats.
- (2) The applicants says that a meeting was held of the company directors who voted unanimously to support the application for dispensation and to undertake the temporary works. One quotation has been obtained for the scaffolding and repairs at a total of £8,500. The applicants say that the reserve fund has sufficient monies to undertake the works even though these had not been factored into the current service charge. Dispensation is sought because of the need to carry out works to prevent further damage, and also because the applicants have had difficulties finding contractors willing and able to quote/carry out the works.
- (3) The relevant legal provisions and rules and appeal rights are set out in the Appendix and Annex to this decision.

The hearing

1. This has been a remote hearing on the papers which has been consented to or not objected to by the parties. The form of remote hearing was classified as P (Paper Remote). A face-to-face hearing was not held because it was not practicable given the COVID-19 pandemic (and the need for social distancing) and no one requested the same or it was not practicable and all issues could be determined in a remote hearing on paper. The documents that the Tribunal was referred to are in the electronic bundle supplied by the applicant.
2. In the context of the COVID-19 pandemic and the social distancing requirements the Tribunal did not consider that an inspection was possible. However, the Tribunal was able to access the detailed and extensive paperwork in the trial bundle that informed their determination. In these circumstances it would not have been proportionate to make an inspection given the current circumstances and the quite specific issues in dispute.

3. The tribunal had before it a trial bundle of documents prepared by the one of the parties in accordance with previous directions. The trial bundle comprised electronic versions of copy deeds, contracts, documents, letters and emails.

The background and the issues

4. The Premises consists of a Georgian building consisting of seven leasehold flats consisting of a basement flat, plus six additional dwellings including 1-bedroom and studio and a mansard on the roof level. The individual properties are let on long leases and are all in the same format and include all the same terms, provisions covenants and conditions.
5. The respondent/tenants hold long leases of the individual properties which require the applicant/landlord to provide services and the tenant to contribute towards their costs by way of a service charge. The applicant tenants must pay a percentage or share defined in their leases for the services provided.
6. The applicant has applied for dispensation from the statutory consultation requirements in respect of urgent roofing works to prevent further ingress of water into Flat 5. So, the application to be considered by the tribunal focused upon making sure that the property is watertight thus preventing further water ingress. The application was made to seek dispensation under section 20ZA of the 1985 Act from all the consultation requirements imposed on the landlord by section 20 of the 1985 Act carried out to the properties. With regard to the grounds for seeking dispensation the applicant stated in the S20ZA application that the application was required in respect of urgent repairs and maintenance to prevent further water damage to the properties.
7. The matters in issue now fall to this Tribunal to determine as more particularly set out below.

The dispensation issues and decision

8. The only issue for the Tribunal to decide is whether or not it is reasonable to dispense with the statutory consultation requirements in respect of the repairs and maintenance works This application does not concern the issue of whether or not service charges will be reasonable or payable.

9. Having considered all of the copy deeds documents and legal submissions provided by both parties, the Tribunal determines the issue as follows.
10. Section 20 of the Landlord and Tenant Act 1985 (as amended) and the Service Charges (Consultation Requirements) (England) Regulations 2003 require a landlord planning to undertake major works, where a leaseholder will be required to contribute over £250 towards those works, to consult the leaseholders in a specified form.
11. Should a landlord not comply with the correct consultation procedure, it is possible to obtain dispensation from compliance with these requirements by such an application as is this one before the Tribunal. Essentially the Tribunal have to be satisfied that it is reasonable to do so.
12. The applicant has applied for dispensation from the statutory consultation requirements in respect of urgent roofing works to prevent further ingress of water into Flat 5. The works to be carried out by the applicant are urgent works to stop water ingress to the property listed in the comprehensive application documentation submitted to the Tribunal.
13. The Tribunal did not receive any objections sent directly to it and no objections were disclosed in the trial bundle supplied to the Tribunal in accordance with Tribunal Directions. Therefore, the Tribunal takes the view that there are no objections to this application.
14. In the case of Daejan Investments Limited v Benson [2013] UKSC 14 by a majority decision (3-2), the Supreme Court considered the dispensation provisions and set out guidelines as to how they should be applied.
15. The court came to the following conclusions:
 - a. The correct legal test on an application to the Tribunal for dispensation is:

“Would the flat owners suffer any relevant prejudice, and if so, what relevant prejudice, as a result of the landlord’s failure to comply with the requirements?”
 - b. The purpose of the consultation procedure is to ensure leaseholders are protected from paying for inappropriate works or paying more than would be appropriate.

- c. In considering applications for dispensation the Tribunal should focus on whether the leaseholders were prejudiced in either respect by the landlord's failure to comply.
 - d. The Tribunal has the power to grant dispensation on appropriate terms and can impose conditions.
 - e. The factual burden of identifying some relevant prejudice is on the leaseholders. Once they have shown a credible case for prejudice, the Tribunal should look to the landlord to rebut it.
 - f. The onus is on the leaseholders to establish:
 - i. what steps they would have taken had the breach not happened and
 - ii. in what way their rights under (b) above have been prejudiced as a consequence.
16. Accordingly, the Tribunal had to consider whether there was any prejudice that may have arisen out of the conduct of the lessor and whether it was reasonable for the Tribunal to grant dispensation following the guidance set out above. It should also be remembered that no leaseholder appears to have lodged an objection to this application.
17. The tribunal was of the view that they could not find significant relevant prejudice to the tenant/respondents. The tribunal accepted the landlord's submission in this regard was sufficient to enable the Tribunal to make a finding allowing dispensation given the emergency nature of the works and the obvious need to try to keep residents and flats as safe and as dry as possible. The applicant believes that the works are vital given the nature of the problems reported. The applicant also says that in effect the tenants of the properties have not suffered any prejudice by the failure to consult. On the evidence before it the Tribunal agrees with this conclusion and believes that it is reasonable to allow dispensation in relation to the subject matter of the application.
18. Rights of appeal made available to parties to this dispute are set out in an Annex to this decision. The applicant shall be responsible for formally serving a copy of the tribunal's decision on all leaseholders. Copies must also be placed in a prominent place in the common parts of the block. In this way, leaseholders who have not returned the reply form may view the tribunal's eventual decision on dispensation and their appeal rights.
