TO REGISTER THE TRADE MARKS:

IN THE MATTER OF OPPOSITION THERETO

UNDER NO. 421586 BY

AMANI B.V.

BACKGROUND AND PLEADINGS

1. On 3 May 2020, Ali Zamani (“the applicant”) applied to register the series of 3 trade marks shown on the cover page of this decision in the UK. The application was published for opposition purposes on 26 June 2020 and registration is sought for the goods set out in the Annex to this decision.

2. On 28 September 2020, Amani B.V. (“the opponent”) opposed the application based upon sections 5(2)(b) and 3(6) of the Trade Marks Act 1994 (“the Act”). Under section 5(2)(b) the opponent relies upon EUTM no. 11874567 for the trade mark LAZAMANI, which was filed on 5 June 2013 and registered on 22 February 2017.<sup>1</sup> The opponent relies upon all goods for which the earlier mark is registered, namely:

Class 25 Footwear, including shoes, boots, sandals, mules, slippers, pumps, espadrilles and ballet shoes; Clothing; Belts [clothing].

3. The opponent claims that there is a likelihood of confusion because the trade marks are similar and the goods are identical or similar.

4. Under section 3(6) the opponent claims that the applicant has no intention to use the trade mark for all of the goods and services in respect of which registration is sought, due to the breadth of the applicant’s specification. As such, the opponent claims that the application has been made in bad faith.

5. The applicant filed a counterstatement denying the claims made.

6. The applicant is unrepresented and the opponent is represented by Maguire Boss. The opponent filed evidence in chief. The applicant filed written submissions during the evidence rounds and the opponent filed evidence in reply in response to those submissions. Neither party requested a hearing and only the opponent filed written submissions in lieu. This decision is taken following a careful perusal of the papers.

EVIDENCE AND SUBMISSIONS

7. The opponent filed evidence in chief in the form of the witness statement of David Tate dated 23 April 2021, accompanied by 2 exhibits. Mr Tate is the trade mark attorney acting on behalf of the opponent in these proceedings.

8. Mr Tate's evidence was accompanied by written submissions dated 23 April 2021.

9. The applicant filed written submissions dated 20 June 2020, although I understand this to be a typographical error and the date should read 20 June 2021.

10. The opponent filed evidence in reply in the form of the second witness statement of Mr Tate dated 13 September 2021, accompanied by 1 exhibit.

11. The opponent's evidence in reply was accompanied by written submissions dated 13 September 2021.

12. The opponent also filed written submissions in lieu of a hearing dated 5 November 2021.

13. Whilst I do not propose to summarise it here, I have taken all of the submissions and evidence into account in reaching my decision and will refer to it below where necessary.

PRELIMINARY ISSUES

Weblinks and attachments

14. In his written submissions, the applicant included a number of web-links. The applicant also filed an attachment which could not be opened by the Registry. On 29 June 2021, the Registry wrote to the applicant as follows:

“Unentitled attachment 00009.htm

You have submitted an attachment that cannot be opened by the Registry and therefore cannot be examined. Please review.

Submissions inadmissible

The registry is unable to accept the documents you have filed as it is not in the required format. The written submission is accompanied by an attachment which is not mentioned in the submissions. This would be considered as evidence and should therefore be filed in evidential format. Please note that it is unclear if the attachment is intended as part of the evidence as the Registry is unable to view it.

Legal argument and opinion can be provided in written submissions, for which a letter or email would suffice. Any factual information must be provided in the form of a witness statement. Any supporting documents referred to in the witness statement must be attached as exhibits.

Weblinks in evidence/submissions

It is noted that the submissions you have filed includes references to a number of websites.

Please note that in reaching his/her final determination, the Hearing Officer will only consider the material as presented. The Hearing Officer will not undertake any independent research. Therefore, any evidential material that you wish to be considered by the Hearing Officer must be clearly set out and presented in, or as, an exhibit to a witness statement, statutory declaration or affidavit. [...]"

15. The applicant was given until 13 July 2021 to rectify the position with regard to his evidence/submissions.

16. The applicant re-submitted the written submissions without the attachment. However, the submissions still contained the referred to web links. As set out in the previous correspondence, I will not take these weblinks into account in reaching my decision. In any event, I do not consider that anything will turn on this point.

Further Evidence

17. On 12 September 2021, the applicant filed a witness statement (with accompanying exhibits) and written submissions. These were filed outside of the period set for the applicant to file evidence.

18. On 23 September 2021, the Registry wrote to the applicant as follows:

“A party may ask to file additional evidence. The Tribunal will consider the reasons for the request, the nature of the evidence and the views of the other party. [...]

In order for this additional evidence to be considered [sic] you must make a formal request explaining your reasons for filing additional evidence on or before 7 October 2021.

If a request is not received by the above date the Registry will not consider your additional evidence [...]

19. No request to file additional evidence was made by the applicant. Consequently, I will not consider these documents in reaching my decision (except to the extent that the submissions overlap with those filed during the evidence rounds).

DECISION

Section 5(2)(b)

20. Section 5(2)(b) of the Act reads as follows:

“5(2) A trade mark shall not be registered if because –

(b) it is similar to an earlier trade mark and is to be registered for goods or services identical with or similar to those for which the earlier trade mark is protected there exists a likelihood of confusion on the part of the public, which includes the likelihood of association with the earlier trade mark.”

21. Section 5A of the Act reads as follows:

“5A Where grounds for refusal of an application for registration of a trade mark exist in respect of only some of the goods or services in respect of which the trade mark is applied for, the application is to be refused in relation to those goods and services only.”

22. By virtue of its earlier filing date, the trade mark upon which the opponent relies qualifies as an earlier trade mark pursuant to section 6 of the Act. The earlier mark had not completed its registration process more than 5 years before the filing date of the application in issue and is not, therefore, subject to proof of use pursuant to section 6A of the Act. The opponent can, therefore, rely upon all of the goods identified.

23. Although the UK has left the EU, section 6(3)(a) of the European Union (Withdrawal) Act 2018 requires tribunals to apply EU-derived national law in accordance with EU law as it stood at the end of the transition period. The provisions of the Act relied upon in these proceedings are derived from an EU Directive. This is why this decision continues to make reference to the trade mark case-law of EU courts.

24. The following principles are gleaned from the decisions of the EU courts in Sabel BV v Puma AG, Case C-251/95, Canon Kabushiki Kaisha v Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Inc, Case C-39/97, Lloyd Schuhfabrik Meyer & Co GmbH v Klijsen Handel B.V. Case C-342/97, Marca Mode CV v Adidas AG & Adidas Benelux BV, Case C-425/98, Matratzen Concord GmbH v OHIM, Case C-3/03, Medion AG v. Thomson Multimedia Sales Germany & Austria GmbH, Case C-120/04, Shaker di L. Laudato & C. Sas v OHIM, Case C-334/05P and Bimbo SA v OHIM, Case C-591/12P:

(a) The likelihood of confusion must be appreciated globally, taking account of all relevant factors;

(b) the matter must be judged through the eyes of the average consumer of the goods or services in question, who is deemed to be reasonably well informed and reasonably circumspect and observant, but who rarely has the chance to make direct comparisons between marks and must instead rely upon the imperfect picture of them he has kept in his mind, and whose attention varies according to the category of goods or services in question;

(c) the average consumer normally perceives a mark as a whole and does not proceed to analyse its various details;

(d) the visual, aural and conceptual similarities of the marks must normally be assessed by reference to the overall impressions created by the marks bearing in mind their distinctive and dominant components, but it is only when all other components of a complex mark are negligible that it is permissible to make the comparison solely on the basis of the dominant elements;

(e) nevertheless, the overall impression conveyed to the public by a composite trade mark may be dominated by one or more of its components;

(f) however, it is also possible that in a particular case an element corresponding to an earlier trade mark may retain an independent distinctive role in a composite mark, without necessarily constituting a dominant element of that mark;

(g) a lesser degree of similarity between the goods or services may be offset by a greater degree of similarity between the marks, and vice versa;

(h) there is a greater likelihood of confusion where the earlier mark has a highly distinctive character, either per se or because of the use that has been made of it;

(i) mere association, in the strict sense that the later mark brings to mind the earlier mark, is not sufficient;

(j) the reputation of a mark does not give grounds for presuming a likelihood of confusion simply because of a likelihood of association in the strict sense;

(k) if the association between the marks creates a risk that the public will wrongly believe that the respective goods or services come from the same or economically-linked undertakings, there is a likelihood of confusion.

Comparison of goods

25. I note that the high point of similarity between the parties' respective specifications is in class 25. The opponent's specification covers "footwear, including shoes, boots, sandals, mules, slippers, pumps, espadrilles and ballet shoes", "clothing" and "belts [clothing]". These terms are all replicated identically in the applicant's specification. Consequently, I will consider the section 5(2)(b) ground on the basis of these identical goods as this represents the opponent's best case.

The average consumer and the nature of the purchasing act

26. As the case law above indicates, it is necessary for me to determine who the average consumer is for the respective parties' goods. I must then determine the manner in which the goods are likely to be selected by the average consumer. In Hearst Holdings Inc, Fleischer Studios Inc v A.V.E.L.A. Inc, Poeticgem Limited, The

Partnership (Trading) Limited, U Wear Limited, J Fox Limited, [2014] EWHC 439 (Ch), Birss J described the average consumer in these terms:

“60. The trade mark questions have to be approached from the point of view of the presumed expectations of the average consumer who is reasonably well informed and reasonably circumspect. The parties were agreed that the relevant person is a legal construct and that the test is to be applied objectively by the court from the point of view of that constructed person. The words “average” denotes that the person is typical. The term “average” does not denote some form of numerical mean, mode or median.”

27. The average consumer for the goods will be members of the general public. The opponent submits that the average consumer will pay a low degree of attention when purchasing the goods. I accept that the goods are likely to be purchased reasonably frequently and, although they will vary in price, they are unlikely to be highly expensive. However, even where the cost of purchase is low, various factors such as materials, aesthetics and comfort are likely to be taken into consideration. Consequently, I consider that a medium degree of attention will be paid during the purchasing process for the goods.

28. The goods are likely to be purchased by self-selection from the shelves of a retail outlet or their online or catalogue equivalent. Consequently, visual considerations are likely to dominate the purchasing process. However, I do not discount that there may also be an aural component to the purchase given that advice may be sought from retail assistants.

29. For the avoidance of doubt, my findings as to the average consumer, level of attention and purchasing process would remain the same for the applicant’s class 3 and class 14 goods. This is because aesthetic and material are likely to be key considerations when purchasing the class 14 goods and ingredients/scent, quality, effectiveness or aesthetics (depending on the particular item) are likely to be key considerations when purchasing the class 3 goods. These goods are likely to be selected from the shelves of retail outlets (or online equivalents) so visual considerations will still remain key, although there may be an aural component to the purchase by virtue of questions asked of retail assistants.

Comparison of trade marks

30. It is clear from Sabel BV v. Puma AG (particularly paragraph 23) that the average consumer normally perceives a trade mark as a whole and does not proceed to analyse its various details. The same case also explains that the visual, aural and conceptual similarities of the trade marks must be assessed by reference to the overall impressions created by the trade marks, bearing in mind their distinctive and dominant components. The Court of Justice of European Union (“CJEU”) stated at paragraph 34 of its judgment in Case C-591/12P, Bimbo SA v OHIM, that:

“... it is necessary to ascertain, in each individual case, the overall impression made on the target public by the sign for which registration is sought, by means of, inter alia, an analysis of the components of a sign and of their relative weight in the perception of the target public, and then, in the light of that overall impression and all factors relevant to the circumstances of the case, to assess the likelihood of confusion.”

31. It would be wrong, therefore, to artificially dissect the trade marks, although it is necessary to take into account the distinctive and dominant components of the marks and to give due weight to any other features which are not negligible and therefore contribute to the overall impressions created by the marks.

32. The respective trade marks are shown below:

Opponent's trade mark	Applicant's trade marks
LAZAMANI	ZAMANI  zamani

	Zamani (series of 3)

33. The applicant's marks all consist of the word ZAMANI, in different cases. As registration of a word only mark covers use in any standard typeface, I do not consider that the differences between the marks will make any impact upon my assessment. Consequently, the same assessment will apply to each. The overall impression of the applicant's mark lies in the word ZAMANI.

34. The opponent's mark consists of the word LAZAMANI. There are no other elements to contribute to the overall impression which lies in the word itself.

35. Visually, the applicant's marks are contained within the last six characters of the opponent's mark. The point of difference between them is the first two letters in the opponent's mark LA- which are absent from the applicant's marks. I bear in mind that the beginnings of marks tend to make more of an impact than the ends. Consequently, I consider there to be a medium degree of visual similarity between the marks.

36. Aurally, the opponent's mark is likely to be pronounced LAH-ZAH-MAHN-EE, although I recognise that as an invented word there may be other possible pronunciations. The applicant's marks are likely to be pronounced ZAH-MAHN-EE, although the same will apply regarding other possible pronunciations. The opponent submits that the marks will be aurally "virtually identical if the start of the Earlier Trade Mark is slurred in speech". However, I have no reason to conclude that that would be the case. In my view, there is a medium degree of aural similarity between the marks.

37. Conceptually, the applicant submits that the word ZAMANI means "gift of god" and is a Middle Eastern name. I have no evidence from the applicant to support this contention. The opponent has filed evidence which lists the word ZAMANI as the 51,579th most common surname in Scotland, the 44,023rd most common surname in Wales and the 24,219th most common surname in England.<sup>2</sup> On balance, I see no reason to conclude that the word ZAMANI will be recognised as a name or that it will be identified as meaning “gift of god” by the UK average consumer.

38. The opponent submits that the letters LA-, at the start of its mark, will be recognised as meaning the definite article “THE” in French or Spanish; as a result, the opponent submits that the conceptual comparison should be between ZAMANI and ‘THE’ ZAMANI. I disagree. Firstly, this presupposes that the opponent’s mark will be broken down into two distinct elements, LA and ZAMANI. I do not consider that likely to be the case, particularly as the word ZAMANI is an invented word in itself and the average consumer will have no reason to identify it as a separate element; to do so would be to artificially dissect the mark. Secondly, this presupposes that the average consumer would understand the word LA to mean THE. I accept that there will inevitably be some consumers who will understand this meaning. However, there will also be a significant proportion of average consumers who will not. In its written submissions in lieu, the opponent also submitted that the letters LA may be taken to indicate goods or services originating in Los Angeles. Again, for the same reasons set out above, I do not consider that the opponent’s mark will be broken down into two separate words and, consequently, this line of argument does not assist the opponent. In my view, both marks are likely to be viewed as invented words with no particular meaning. As a result, the conceptual position is neutral.

Distinctive character of the earlier trade mark

39. In Lloyd Schuhfabrik Meyer & Co. GmbH v Klijsen Handel BV, Case C-342/97 the CJEU stated that:

“22. In determining the distinctive character of a mark and, accordingly, in assessing whether it is highly distinctive, the national court must make an overall assessment of the greater or lesser capacity of the mark to identify the goods or services for which it has been registered as coming from a particular undertaking, and thus to distinguish those goods or services from those of other undertakings (see, to that effect, judgment of 4 May 1999 in Joined Cases C-108/97 and C-109/97 Windsurfing Chiemsee v Huber and Attenberger [1999] ECR I-2779, paragraph 49).

23. In making that assessment, account should be taken, in particular, of the inherent characteristics of the mark, including the fact that it does or does not contain an element descriptive of the goods or services for which it has been registered; the market share held by the mark; how intensive, geographically widespread and long-standing use of the mark has been; the amount invested by the undertaking in promoting the mark; the proportion of the relevant section of the public which, because of the mark, identifies the goods or services as originating from a particular undertaking; and statements from chambers of commerce and industry or other trade and professional associations (see Windsurfing Chiemsee, paragraph 51).”

40. Registered trade marks possess varying degrees of inherent distinctive character ranging from the very low, because they are suggestive or allusive of a characteristic of the goods, to those with high inherent distinctive character, such as invented words which have no allusive qualities. The distinctiveness of a mark can be enhanced by virtue of the use made of it.

41. The opponent has not pleaded that its mark has acquired an enhanced distinctive character through use, nor has it filed any evidence to support such a finding. Consequently, I have only the inherent position to consider. The earlier mark is the word LAZAMANI. This is likely to be viewed as an invented word with no particular meaning. Consequently, I consider it to be inherently distinctive to a high degree.

Likelihood of confusion

42. Confusion can be direct or indirect. Direct confusion involves the average consumer mistaking one mark for the other, while indirect confusion is where the average consumer realises the marks are not the same but puts the similarity that exists between the marks and the goods down to the responsible undertakings being the same or related. There is no scientific formula to apply in determining whether there is a likelihood of confusion; rather, it is a global assessment where a number of factors need to be borne in mind. The first is the interdependency principle i.e. a lesser degree of similarity between the respective trade marks may be offset by a greater degree of similarity between the goods and services and vice versa. As I mentioned above, it is necessary for me to keep in mind the distinctive character of the earlier mark, the average consumer for the goods and the nature of the purchasing process. In doing so, I must be alive to the fact that the average consumer rarely has the opportunity to make direct comparisons between trade marks and must instead rely upon the imperfect picture of them that he has retained in his mind.

43. I have found the marks to be visually and aurally similar to a medium degree. I have found the conceptual position to be neutral. I have found the earlier mark to possess a high degree of inherent distinctive character. I have concluded that the average consumer will be a member of the general public who will pay a medium degree of attention when purchasing the goods. I have found that the purchasing process will be predominantly visual, although I do not discount an aural component. I will proceed on the basis that the goods are identical.

44. I recognise that the high distinctiveness of the earlier mark is a factor in favour of the opponent. However, in my view, the visual and aural differences between the marks will be sufficient to avoid consumers mistakenly recalling or misremembering them as each other, even when used on identical goods. Consequently, I do not consider there to be a likelihood of direct confusion. Having recognised the differences between the marks, I see no reason for the average consumer to conclude that they originate from the same or economically linked undertakings. I note that the opponent submits that its mark will simply be viewed as LA ZAMANI or 'THE' ZAMANI. However, for the reasons set out above, I do not consider that to be the case. The addition of two letters to the start of the opponent's mark LA-, to form a different invented word (even one that shares a common letter string) is not a natural brand extension or variant. I do not consider there to be a likelihood of indirect confusion.

45. For the avoidance of doubt, even if I am wrong in my findings that the marks are conceptually neutral and they are, in fact, both recognised as names, my finding regarding likelihood of confusion would remain the same. This is because there would remain sufficient visual and aural differences between the marks to avoid them being mistakenly recalled or misremembered as each other and there would be no reason for the average consumer to conclude that they originate from the same or economically linked undertakings; it is not a natural brand extension or variant to use a different name (even if it contains the same string of letters).

46. The opposition based upon section 5(2)(b) is dismissed.

Section 3(6)

47. Section 3(6) of the Act states:

“(6) A trade mark shall not be registered if or to the extent that the application is made in bad faith.”

48. I note the opponent’s submissions regarding alleged admissions made in the applicant’s counterstatement. Most of the applicant’s Form TM8 focuses upon the similarity of the marks (or lack thereof). However, the last line of the counterstatement states: “With all the respects, I would like the Trademark LAZAMANI’s request/objections to my trade ZAMANI to be dismissed”. On balance, I am satisfied that this amounts to a general denial of the grounds of opposition, including the opposition under section 3(6) of the Act. Consequently, I do not consider that the applicant can be taken to have admitted bad faith.

49. In Sky Limited & Ors v Skykick, UK Ltd & Ors, [2021] EWCA Civ 1121 the Court of Appeal considered the case law from Chocoladefabriken Lindt & Sprüngli AG v Franz Hauswirth GmbH, Case C-529/07 EU:C:2009:361, Malaysia Dairy Industries Pte. Ltd v Ankenævnetfor Patenter Varemærker Case C-320/12, EU:C:2013:435, Koton Mağazacılık Tekstil Sanayi ve Ticaret AŞ, Case C-104/18 P, EU:C:2019:724, Hasbro, Inc. v EUIPO, Kreativni Dogaaji d.o.o. intervening, Case T-663/19, EU:2021:211, pelicantravel.com s.r.o. v OHIM, Pelikan Vertriebsgesellschaft mbH & Co KG (intervening), Case T-136/11, EU:T:2012:689, and Psytech International Ltd v OHIM, Institute for Personality & Ability Testing, Inc (intervening), Case T-507/08, EU:T:2011:46. It summarised the law as follows:

“68. The following points of relevance to this case can be gleaned from these CJEU authorities:

1. The allegation that a trade mark has been applied for in bad faith is one of the absolute grounds for invalidity of an EU trade mark which can be relied on before the EUIPO or by means of a counterclaim in infringement proceedings: Lindt at [34].

2. Bad faith is an autonomous concept of EU trade mark law which must be given a uniform interpretation in the EU: Malaysia Dairy Industries at [29].

3. The concept of bad faith presupposes the existence of a dishonest state of mind or intention, but dishonesty is to be understood in the context of trade mark law, i.e. the course of trade and having regard to the objectives of the law namely the establishment and functioning of the internal market, contributing to the system of undistorted competition in the Union, in which each undertaking must, in order to attract and retain customers by the quality of its goods or services, be able to have registered as trade marks signs which enable the consumer, without any possibility of confusion, to distinguish those goods or services from others which have a different origin: Lindt at [45]; Koton Mağazacılık at [45].

4. The concept of bad faith, so understood, relates to a subjective motivation on the part of the trade mark applicant, namely a dishonest intention or other sinister motive. It involves conduct which departs from accepted standards of ethical behaviour or honest commercial and business practices: Hasbro at [41].

5. The date for assessment of bad faith is the time of filing the application: Lindt at [35].

6. It is for the party alleging bad faith to prove it: good faith is presumed until the contrary is proved: Pelikan at [21] and [40].

7. Where the court or tribunal finds that the objective circumstances of a particular case raise a rebuttable presumption of lack of good faith, it is for the applicant to provide a plausible explanation of the objectives and commercial logic pursued by the application: Hasbro at [42].

8. Whether the applicant was acting in bad faith must be the subject of an overall assessment, taking into account all the factors relevant to the particular case: Lindt at [37].

9. For that purpose it is necessary to examine the applicant's intention at the time the mark was filed, which is a subjective factor which must be determined by reference to the objective circumstances of the particular case: Lindt at [41] – [42].

10. Even where there exist objective indicia pointing towards bad faith, however, it cannot be excluded that the applicant's objective was in pursuit of a legitimate objective, such as excluding copyists: Lindt at [49].

11. Bad faith can be established even in cases where no third party is specifically targeted, if the applicant's intention was to obtain the mark for purposes other than those falling within the functions of a trade mark: Koton Mağazacılık at [46].

12. It is relevant to consider the extent of the reputation enjoyed by the sign at the time when the application was filed: the extent of that reputation may justify the applicant's interest in seeking wider legal protection for its sign: Lindt at [51] to [52].

13. Bad faith cannot be established solely on the basis of the size of the list of goods and services in the application for registration: Psytech at [88], Pelikan at [54]”.

50. The correct approach to the assessment of bad faith claims is as follows. According to Alexander Trade Mark, the key questions for determination in such a case are:

(a) What, in concrete terms, was the objective that the trade mark applicant has been accused of pursuing?

(b) Was that an objective for the purposes of which the contested application could not be properly filed? and

(c) Was it established that the contested application was filed in pursuit of that objective?

51. It is necessary to ascertain what the applicant knew at the relevant date: Red Bull GmbH v Sun Mark Limited and Sea Air & Land Forwarding Limited [2012] EWHC 1929 (Ch). Evidence about subsequent events may be relevant, if it casts light backwards on the position at the relevant date: Hotel Cipriani SRL and others v Cipriani (Grosvenor Street) Limited and others, [2009] RPC 9 (approved by the Court of Appeal in England and Wales: [2010] RPC 16).

52. The relevant date for the assessment in this case is 3 May 2020.

53. In the Notice of Opposition, the opponent states:

“From the layout and length of the Applicant’s specification of goods, and the specific terms listed, it appears that the Applicant has simply clicked on most if not all of the UKIPO’s “pre-approved terms” lists for the relevant Classes, in more-or-less alphabetical order, and has given little or no thought to whether or not he has any genuine intention to use the trade mark for all of the goods specified.

We submit that given the goods covered by the application, it is highly unlikely that the Applicant has any genuine intention to use the trade mark in relation to, for example, goods such as “grinding preparations for semiconductors”, “quillaia bark for washing” or “seaweed gelatine for laundry use [funon]” in class 3, or “osmium” or “ship’s chronometers” in class 14, or “pleated skirts for formal kimonos (hakama)” in class 25.

In the light of the above, registration of the contested trade mark is contrary to the provisions of Section 3(6) of the Trade Marks Act 1994 in that the application was made in bad faith.”

54. Whether it is bad faith to apply for a trade mark without any intention to use it in relation to the specified goods and services was considered in Sky v Skykick, CJEU, Case C-371/18, EU:C:2020:45 (“Sky CJEU”) and Sky Limited & Ors v Skykick, UK Ltd & Ors, [2021] EWCA Civ 1121 (“Sky CA”). The law appears to be as follows:

- a) Applying to register a trade mark without an intention to use it is not bad faith per se. Therefore, it is not necessary for the trade mark applicant to be using, or have plans to use, the mark in relation to all the goods/services covered by the specification: Sky CJEU.
- b) The bad faith of the trade mark applicant cannot, therefore, be presumed on the basis of the mere finding that, at the time of filing his or her application, that applicant had no economic activity corresponding to the goods and services referred to in that application: Sky CJEU.
- c) However, where the trade mark application is filed without an intention to use it in relation to the specified goods and services, and there is no rationale for the application under trade mark law, it may constitute bad faith. Such bad faith may be established where there are objective, relevant and consistent indications showing that the applicant had the intention either of undermining, in a manner inconsistent with honest practices, the interests of third parties, or of obtaining, without even targeting a specific third party, an exclusive right for purposes other than those falling within the functions of a trade mark: Sky CJEU.
- d) A trade mark may be applied for in good faith in relation to some of the goods/services covered by the application, and in bad faith as regards others: Sky CJEU.

- e) It is not possible for there to be bad faith in respect of an entire category of goods or services where there was an intention to use the mark in relation to some goods or services within that category (Sky CJEU; Sky CA).
- f) Each category of goods and services must be considered separately, taking into account legitimate use and factors such as an applicant's reputation, brand recognition and expansion which might justify a wide specification: Sky CA.

55. It is common for applicants to apply for a trade mark prior to any economic activities commencing. Trade mark applicants have five years within which to use their mark for the applied-for goods/services before their mark can be subject to challenge for non-use. It is clear from the case law cited above, that the mere fact that an applicant has applied for a particularly broad range of goods/services cannot be grounds on its own for a finding of bad faith; there must be something more i.e. objective, relevant and consistent indications showing that the applicant had the intention either of undermining, in a manner inconsistent with honest practices, the interests of third parties, or of obtaining, without even targeting a specific third party, an exclusive right for purposes other than those falling within the functions of a trade mark.

56. There is no suggestion that the applicant has acted with the intention of undermining the interests of third parties or obtaining an exclusive right for purposes other than those falling within the functions of a trade mark. I do not consider the claim that the mere breadth of the specification is sufficient to give rise to a prima facie case of bad faith to have any merit in light of the above case law.

57. The opposition based upon section 3(6) is dismissed in its entirety.

CONCLUSION

58. The opposition is unsuccessful, and the application may proceed to registration.

COSTS

59. The applicant has been successful and would ordinarily be entitled to a contribution towards his costs. However, as the applicant is unrepresented, the Tribunal wrote to him on 8 October 2021 stating that if the applicant wished to claim costs then a completed costs proforma should be filed on or before 5 November 2021. The letter continued:

“If the pro-forma is not completed and returned, costs, other than official fees arising from the action (excluding extensions of time), may not be awarded. [...].”

60. As no proforma was filed, I decline to make an award of costs.

Dated this 29th day of November 2021
