(7) It shall be the duty of the appellant to apply in writing to the chancellor for a signed copy of any note made by him of the proceedings and of his judgment, and to furnish that copy for the use of the appellate court ; and any other party to the proceedings may apply in writing to the chancellor for a signed copy of any such note.

(8) The registrar of the appellate court shall file one copy of the notice of appeal in the registry of the court.

(9) The appellate court may, on an application by the appellant, grant a stay of proceedings on the judgment of the consistory court.

Service on additional parties

6.—(1) The appellate court may at or before the hearing of any such appeal, on the application of any person who was not a party but might have been made a party to the proceedings in the consistory court, by order direct that the notice of appeal shall be served on him and that he shall be made a party to the appeal ; and the appellate court may give such consequential directions and make such further orders as it thinks just.

(2) Any such application may be granted on such terms as the court thinks just, which may include the adjournment or postponement of the hearing.

7.—(1) The appellate court shall fix a time for the hearing of the appeal which shall be not less than 28 days after the lodging of the appeal unless the appellate court otherwise orders.

(2) Any party to the appeal may apply to the registrar of the appellate court for a postponement of the hearing and, if the application is granted (in accordance with rule 11), the hearing shall be at such later time as the appellate court may fix.

(3) The appellate court may at any time of its own motion postpone the hearing of the appeal.

(4) The registrar of the appellate court shall give not less than 14 days notice of the sittings of the court to all the parties.

(b) without prejudice to the foregoing paragraph any evidence given in those proceedings by affidavit or deposition may be proved by the production of copies of the affidavit or deposition ;

(c) in default of production of the chancellor's note the appellate court may receive any other evidence or statement of what occurred in the consistory court ;

(d) the appellate court shall have full discretionary power to receive oral evidence (whether from witnesses who gave evidence before the consistory court or new witnesses) or further evidence by affidavit or by deposition taken before an examiner, but this power shall only be exercised in exceptional circumstances.

(2) The appellate court or, with the consent of the parties, any judge or judges thereof may inspect any property or thing concerning which any question arises on the appeal.

(3) The appellate court may draw any inferences of fact which might have been drawn in the proceedings in the consistory court.

(4) The appellate court may give any judgment or direction which ought to have been given by the consistory court or may remit the matter with the directions of the appellate court for re-hearing and determination by the consistory court.

(5) The powers under the last foregoing paragraph shall, if any party has been added by the appellate court be exercisable as if he had been a party to the proceedings in the consistory court.

(6) The registrar of the appellate court shall give notice in writing to the registrar of the diocese of any judgment or directions given by the appellate court.
