EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Rules)

These Rules amend the Energy Supply Company Administration Rules 2013 (S.I. 2013/1046), which set out the procedure for the conduct of energy supply company administration proceedings in England and Wales. Energy supply company administration is a special insolvency regime specifically created for the companies that supply gas and electricity in Great Britain.

Rule 10 of the Energy Supply Company Administration Rules 2013 sets out the manner in which service of an application for an energy supply company administration order is to be effected. Paragraph (5) of rule 10 details the manner of service in respect of an “authorised deposit-taker” and a “former authorised deposit taker” which are defined in sub-paragraphs (a) and (b) respectively of paragraph (6). The definition of authorised deposit-taker cross-refers to the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000 (c. 8). Rule 2(a) of these Rules substitutes that cross-reference. It replaces the reference to Part 4 of that Act with a reference to Part 4A. Part 4A was substituted for Part 4 on 1st April 2013. Rule 2(b) of these Rules extends the definition of former authorised deposit-taker to include a person who was at a former time a person with permission under Part 4A and continues to have a liability in respect of any deposit for which it had a liability at that time.

A full impact assessment of the effect that the Energy Supply Company Administration Rules 2013 will have on the costs of business is available from the Department of Energy and Climate Change, 3 Whitehall Place, London SW1A 2AW. A copy has been placed in the library of each House of Parliament.
