EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations)

These Regulations amend the Legal Aid (Financial Resources and Payment for Services) (Legal Persons) Regulations 2013 (S.I. 2013/512) (the “principal Regulations”) to give effect to the Convention on the international recovery of child support and other forms of family maintenance concluded at The Hague on 23 November 2007 (“the 2007 Hague Convention”), for the recognition, enforcement or establishment of a decision in relation to maintenance. The amendments come into force on the same day that the principal Regulations come into force, 1st April 2013.

These Regulations amend regulation 10 of the principal Regulations. Regulation 10 sets out the exceptions from the requirement that the Director, before determining that a legal person qualifies for civil legal services, must make a determination that the legal person’s financial resources are such that the legal person is eligible for civil legal services. Therefore for the matters set out in regulation 10, the legal person will not be subject to a means test.

Regulation 2(2)(a) amends regulation 10 of the principal Regulations to provide that family help (higher) or legal representation are available for applications under Article 10(1)(a) or (b) of the 2007 Hague Convention, without being subject to a means test, where Article 17(b) of the Convention applies. Article 17(b) provides for free legal assistance if the legal person previously received legal aid for the matter in the State of origin.

Regulation 2(2)(b) amends regulation 10 of the principal Regulations to provide that legal help, family help (lower), family help (higher) and legal representation are available, without being subject to a means test, for applications under Article 10(1)(a) or (b) of the 2007 Hague Convention concerning maintenance obligations towards a person under the age of 21, arising from a parent-child relationship.
